ED. FLEISCHER, Secretary and General Superintendent of the St. Joseph (Mo.) Industrial Exposition, sends us a circular from which we copy the following: ing element of the times—as the lever that moves the world—the Directors of the St. Joseph Industrial Exposition desire to secure and preserve in a durable shape a copy of every newspaper published in the United States, and to that end have ordered that this circular besent to all the newspapers in the land, requesting that the editor or proprietor of each of them cause to be sent to the address given below a copy of his paper. These papers are to be neatly bound by States, and placed on exhibition at the Exposition, until the fourth day thereof, when they are to be sold to the highest bidder, and the proceeds to be donated to the fund for building a monument to the illustrious journalist and fosterer of the press, Horace Greeley, who did so much to advance the interests of our Great West. It is necessary that these papers shall reach the undersigned the first of September, that they may be prepared for exhibition at the Exposition, which commences on the 29th of September, 1873.

ALMOST AN ACCIDENT.-J. C. Foster, an attorney of this place, was coming from Bullionville in a buggy, accompanied by his wife. It was after 9 o'clock and quite dark when the buggy came to the point where the wagon road crosses the track. The cars, it seems, were running down the grade, without steam, and there was no way of defining the impending danger. But just before Mr. Foster reached the crossing of the track sparks from the locrossing of the track sparks from the lo-comotive gave the first intimation that a train was approaching, when he at once placed the reins in Mrs. Foster's hands, telling her to hold on to them, and im-mediately sprang in front and caught the team by the bridles. The noise of the passing locomotive so frightened the horses that it was with the utmost diffi-culty that the team could be held. They reared and plunged at a fearful rate, and reared and plunged at a fearful rate, and one of the horses in his struggles struck Mr. Foster on the thigh just above the knee, inflicting rather unpleasant bruises. A moment more and the team would have been run down by the train and Mr. and Mrs. F. either killed or severely injured. It is certainly the duty of the railroad company to blow a whistle before crossing a public thoroughfare. Without this precaution there is danger of serious results. reared and plunged at a fearful rate, and this city, (attorney with J. C. Foster), has drawn some very humorous illustrations of the writings of Hudibras. They were drawn with pen and ink and depict were drawn with pen and ink and depict several of Hudibras' characters very amusingly. Had we the cuts representing these characters they could be bringed that the wishes of the settlers will be respected, and that no reservation be especially advantage. A view of this sketch of Mr. Clark could not fail to interest any one to the Muddy and to give sublicity to the ing these characters they could be printed and made to appear to proper advantage. A view of this sketch of Mr. Clark could not fail to interest any one possessed of a taste for the humorous. We can allude specially to only one of the ten illustrations, and this is a representation of the oft misquoted lines of Hndibras—

He that complies against his will is of his own opinion still. The illustration of these lines is a man with a huge club uplifted and aimed squarely at the eranium of some obdurate opponent, while the other hand is locked in the hair of his head. It is a very apt picture of Hudibras' idea of attempting to hander opinions into the head of an adversary, and shows the necessity of resorting to appeals to man's understanding rather than to brute force.

Meadow Valley, J. C. Borsey, by consent of counsel for plaintiff and defendants respectively, was uppointed receiver, with orders to take charge of the land and cut the bay. In the case of Newman vs. Taylor Bales, a case of a similiar nature, the same order was made and the same receiver appointed. Mr. Dorsey gave bonds, as required by the Court, for the faithful discharge of his duties.

Like the wine he abuses, his tast men were sitting at the time, and after will improve with age. passing a few words with the bar-keeper, passing a few words with the bar-keeper, drew his revolver and fired, aiming directly at a swinging lamp. The globe and chimney of the lamp were shivered to atoms, and two balls passed through the ceiling. No arrest was made at the time. Soon after Malloy went into a saddler shop on Main street, and while there fired his pistol again. Complaint was made before Justice Stoutenburgh; a warrant was issued and Deputy Sheriff was made before Justice Stoutenburgh; a warrant was issued and Deputy Sheriff Hoag made the arrest. The offender was fined $20 and costs, leaving a bill of $50 or thereabouts. In default of payment he was committed to the County Jail, where he will have an opportunity of reflecting upon his folly and wickedness. A DASTARDLY ACT. - About 11/4 o'clock yesterday morming a fellow whose name we have not learned entered a lodging house in this city, and after being shown house in this city, and after being shown to a room made an improper proposal to the lady of the house, who, being wholly unprotected, gave an alarm, which brought some of the male inmates of the house to the rescue. The fellow also made a dastardly attack upon the lady, who, from motives of delicacy, declined to prosecute him. There are men in this town who have no regard whatever for any of the amenities of life, and will not scruple to insult or strike a woman. The law, even if enforced against such offenders, affords no adequate punishment for such infamous proceedings, and unless a stop is put to the prevailing unless a stop is put to the prevailing ruffilanism, the people themselves will be compelled to adopt means outside the forms of law for their own protection and for the preservation of peace and

THEATER .- This evening the great his trionic play, dramatized from the work of Harriet Beecher Stowe—"Uncle Tom's Cabin"—will be presented for the first time in this city. Carrie Carter will take (and no doubt ably sustain) the character of Topsey, and Bella Bird will contribute to the evening's entertainment by personating Miss Ophelia. We bespeak a full house, as lots of fun and sentiment combined will be vouchsafed these who attend. of Harriet Beecher Stowe-"Uncle Tom's

COTTON GROWING

From Way. Anderson, who resides near St. Thomas, in this county, we gather some interesting facts in regard to the cultivation of cotton in that section of Lincoln, adding another to the many sources of wealth in which the county abounds. Mr. Anderson has from seven to ten acres, and a Mr. Carter (a Southern man and quite familiar with the cultivation of cotton in the Southern States) has over twenty acres. Both climate and soil on the Muddy are favorable to the growth of cotton, and cultivators of the staple are not troubled by bugs or other depredators upon their crops. The cotton tree grows to a greater hight than in the Cotton States of the South, and on the Muddy the yield is greater, and the quality of the cotton superior. The sta-ple has been cultivated to a limited ex-

WANT OF MAIL FACILITIES. We have on more than one occasion previously advocated the establishment of better mail facilities for the accommodation of settlers on the Muddy. Their locality is about as isolated as any spot within the jurisdiction of the United States except, perhaps, some remote. States, except, perhaps, some remote parts of Alaska. These settlers on the Muddy have worked against every disadvantage resulting from their remoteness from all the centers of trade; yet they have struggled on until now the former waste places are brombt, major discovering the structure of the waste places are brought under cultiva-tion. By extending to them ample mail facilities and opening roads to their set-tlement, they will be better able to develop the rich resources of that region, and in turn the whole county will be bene-fitted by the more rapid settlement of
